The Only Alternative

If heretofore there has been cause for reasonable doubt in the mind of any intelligent man, as to the unavoidable result of the war there can no longer be any question upon the subject It is henceforth perfectly idle to talk about peace upon any terms, except the submission of one of the parties engaged in this tremendous conflict Beyond any peradventure, it involves the very existence of the Union, and the Republic or the rebellion must be subjugated There could be no substantial peace even if the Government was willing to day to stop the war, and to recognize Southern independence Another war would break out even before terms of peace could be arranged, and thus the contest would be indefinitely prolonged and the prosperity and growth of the nation hindered perhaps for a whole generation The only course left is the vigorous prosecution of the war, until the rebellion is crushed out of sight, or the Republic is compelled to confess its weakness and to submit to the terms which the victorious South may demand Should we do otherwise, should we make peace with treason, while we have power to strike a blow or to lift a finger, we should deserve eternal infamy, and the blood shed by our brave brothers in defence of freedom and national integrity would cry out from the ground against us, till the last hour of recorded time The war was forced upon us, we must fight it through. The South, without cause or provocation drove us, reluctant and anxious to preserve peace, to the battle field let it there meet the solemn and destructive consequences of its own wickedness The late reports from Grant, and Sherman and Butler, sufficiently indicate what those consequences must soon be They show, as clear as sunlight, that the majesty of the Government is sure triumphantly and speedily to assert its supreme and constitutional power, and to roll back upon the heads of the leaders in the great conspiracy, the red tide of war and tribulation and death, which they foolishly supposed they could send forward to devastate and ruin the North The cup of woe which they prepared for the loyal States, is pressed to their own lips, and it will not be taken away, till they have drained it to the very dregs

Democracy Classified —Petroleum Nasby classifies the various cliques in the Democratic party as follows

1 Them ez would nominait Mick Lellon on a war platform
2 Them ez would nominait Mick Lellon on a peese platform
3 Them ez would nominait Vallandygum on a war platform
4 Them ez would nominait Vallandygum on a peese platform
5 Them ez would favor the war of slavery cood be let alone.
6 Them ez is opposed to the war in enny shape whatever
7 Them ez is in Kannaday in consequense of the draft
8 The betwixt and betweeners who are ashamed uv our party and aint sootable for enny other They are with Dimmocracy ez the Michiganers is with the itch—they would like to get rid of it, but can't

Mr Nasby must have run with just such a party as there is in Oregon The Democracy here condemns the rebellion, and in the same breath, condemns the Government for trying to suppress it! It professes to be in favor of the Union, and opposes as boldly as it dares, all measures adopted by those in authority for its preservation. It is all things to all men, so that thereby it may get some votes and lose as few as possible of those given by men who profess to be Democrats, and yet do not agree with each other, nor with the party in scarcely any matter of policy It is a piebald institution, ring streaked, speckled and spotted,—united only for the sake of recovering its lost influence and authority, and save the South, if possible, from the justly deserved consequences of its infamous treason and wicked assault upon the life of the nation.

A Cincinnati millionaire recently declared a decided preference for country boys for clerks He said that there were plenty of young men in fine cloth calling for situations, but they did not suit him He preferred a very different kind of stock, coming from the country in rough clothes, for something could be made out of them.

Letter from Placerville

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT]

PLACERVILLE, Boise Co I T,
May 14th, 1864

Since my last we have been favored with about twenty four hours of rain which coming as it does will without doubt increase our now rapidly failing supply of water The cry now is water water! Had we but a summer's supply of this element the gold yield of this place would be immense Since the opening of spring several hill diggings have been developed and the lucky dudes have been at work day and night making good use of the water while it lasted Last night I saw $8 20 cleaned up in one of these hill claims for twelve days work—no small pan of gold I assure you Another claim near by, which sold two weeks since for $50 cleaned up one hundred and twenty ounces for six days work A claim in a small gulch [illegible] Lawyer quartz lode had taken out this spring up to Saturday night last over $80 000 and if the water had not failed, would have doubled that in the next two months In Bannock and the other mining camps the same thing is repeated and the [illegible] water The Payette river containing [illegible] 10,000 inches of water [illegible] reach by digging a ditch 40 miles long [illegible] cannot raise the capital and the [illegible] to [illegible] work That it may be done is certain and that [illegible] the miner themselves are talking strongly of banding together and doing it for their own convenience if nothing more

The Wood River excitement is again the order of the day and it is to be presumed that this time something will be struck There is a [illegible] there but little inferior in size to this and those who have been there before say they found gold everywhere they tried though not in sufficient quantities to pay Now that the snow is off they may be expected to find something

At the Owyhee they have struck something supposed to be the continuation of the Oro Fino and Morning Star lodges, about five miles from Ruby City and claims have been located without stint. Your correspondent has a claim on the [illegible] and of course that is the best

A lively opposition is going on here between opposition stages running between this place and Bannock much to the satisfaction of travelers who now travel at greatly reduced rates

The business men of this community are bemoaning their fate in a distressing manner If you were to believe some of them they are not getting back the cash money for the freight GRAYON

Further Particulars of the Indian Fight —By the arrival of the Military Express from Capt. Drake's command we are placed in possession of further particulars of the fight with the Snake Indians After the discovery of the camp by the Indian allies Lieuts McCall and Watson with sixty men left their camp at [illegible] o'clock [illegible], and arrived at the battle field about 2 o'clock [illegible] Lieut McCall, commanding the detachment then divided his men, giving 30 to Lieut Watson with the understanding that he (Watson) should attack the Indians in front, while Lieut McCall and the Indian allies would attack on both flanks thereby cutting off their retreat Lieut McCall with his 30 men moved on the right and discovered a few Indians driving up their horses towards their camp He then moved rapidly forward and succeeded in capturing the band of horses About this time the attack was made by Lieut Watson and as soon as the firing commenced Lieut McCall moved rapidly in that direction but finding himself in range of the fire from the front he changed direction to the right and moved to the scene of action only in time however to witness the defeat of Watson's party Lieut Watson bravely led a charge with his small band upon the savages, who retreated within a formidable fortification erected by them and at the first fire the brave man fell pierced through the heart

At this fire two soldiers were killed and three wounded After Lieut Watson fell the savages succeeded in taking his body inside of their fortification not however, without a stout resistance on the part of Stock Whitley the leader of the Indian allies Stock fought bravely over the body of the gallant Watson and received six wounds, one ball entering the back of his neck and coming out through his mouth knocking out two of his teeth He then threw aside his rifle, and with the knife attacked the Indians, but was overpowered and left for dead on the field having been stabbed in several parts of his body After they had possession of Lieut Watson's body they (the Snakes) stripped him of all his clothing, broke his skull and limbs and then threw it over a precipice As soon as Lieut McCall saw the situation he ordered a retreat and sent an express to Capt Drake for reinforcements Captains Drake and Small, with forty men arrived next morning to find that the Indians had retreated leaving all their stores and property behind them Upon examination it was found that the fortification in which the Indians were concealed was almost impregnable, and could be held against a large force We also learn that Lieut Waymire has been ordered from Warm Springs, with his command, to join Capt Drake, leaving the Reservation without any protection from these savages The result of the battle foots up as follows Three whites and one Indian killed and several wounded The wounded are well cared for and in a fair way to recover

The Composition of Society in New Orleans —A well written review of Society in New Orleans contains the following passage "In New Orleans we find four classes of people The old Secessionists, who stand apart and say their prayers for Davis like the old Covenanters in conventicles, the old Union residents who opposed secession as a principle believe in the Union as a theory but think that slavery is an institution that should be made sacred, and would be satisfied with a united Republic under a Southern President the new men including all wholesome with the army who have been created by the power and patronage of the military department, and believe in the power of the Administration, and who elected Michael Hahn Governor the radicals, who take the most extreme ground in favor of emancipation negro suffrage, and a division of the lands. I make these distinctions [illegible] although I may do some injustice The [illegible] is perhaps the most available test of the [illegible] of Louisiana. The Secessionists did not [illegible] The Radicals and Conservatives were not organized and made a small pull The friends of the Administration had everything their own way, and succeeded in bringing the State back to the Union That party is gaining strength The most sanguine friends of the South regard Southern domination in New Orleans as a dream Sensible men, especially those who have families to support, own a little property, and see that all their interests and sympathies are in New Orleans, accept this as a fact renew their allegiance to the Union very much as they would renew a policy of insurance or a mortgage upon their house. The wealthy rebel sells his property and goes to Europe or the North The fanatical rebel registers himself an enemy and goes through the lines

Dry Goods in Dixie —A letter from a lady residing in Natchitoches, La, to her brother in Sacramento gives the following as specimens of ruling prices of drygoods, at the date of the letter, which was just previous to Gen Bank's advance into that part of the country "Spools of thread, $3 a spool, common fine tooth combs, $10, tooth brushes the same, a calico dress, $100; boots, $40 apiece ribbons, $15 a yard, for trimming a bonnet, $35, shoes, $25 to $30 She says she has made a pair of shoes for herself and another for her sister out of brown linen, which lasted six weeks, and adds "Next week I am going to make me a pair out of bed ticking and I only wish I had enough of it to make me some dresses"

The Great Fair in New York —On the 17th May one million dollars was handed over to the Sanitary Commission by the Chairman of the Metropolitan Fair Committee, as the first instalment

Suicide at Dalles — The wife of Thomas Fitzgerald a saloon keeper committed suicide by taking laudanum on Monday night and death followed in a few hours. No cause is assigned for the rash act. She leaves a husband and three children the youngest an infant.

GRANT STILL MARCHING ON.

Richmond Enquirer admits loss of 15,000 in Battles with Butler.

REBEL MIDNIGHT ASSAULT ON BUTLER REPULSED.

New York May 24th —Dispatches to the Philadelphia Inquirer state that early on Saturday morning our army had advanced capturing the rebel pickets and pushed on cutting off a portion of the rear column of the rebel army at Ny River capturing 400 prisoners

A special to the Times dated Guinney's Station May 21st says The Army of the Potomac is [illegible] on the move towards Richmond During the night Hancock's corps which left the left of our line in front of Spottsylvania took up their line of march moving on a road parallel with the Ny River [illegible] this morning he reached Guinney's Station on the Fredericksburg and Richmond Railroad Thence he pushed onward [illegible] the railroad and to night finds the head of Hancock's column at Bowling Green, 18 miles south of Fredericksburg

Other corps have been to day following the same general line of march and are now [illegible] this point It will be perceived from this that the commanding General has effected a turning movement of Lee's right flank which is now hastily falling back to take up a new defensive position We expect that his next stand will be on the South Anna though he may endeavor to bite us while moving by his flank as he did when we outflanked his line on the Rapidan.

Heavy firing is now heard across the Ny where one of our columns is moving

A mile south by west of Guinney's Station is the point of confluence of the Ny and Po rivers At this point the stream is crossed by a bridge which is in our possession

Our army is now all gone from the front which for the past few weeks has been held before Spottsylvania Our present front while it puts us in a very advantageous position in regard to the enemy at the same time covers our communications by way of Fredericksburg and Acquia Creek The railroad between these two points will soon be completed and will doubtless be placed in running order south of Fredericksburg as we advance

New York May 24 —The Herald's correspondent now with Butler dated yesterday gives an account of a midnight assault by the rebels in the night previous The pickets received their fire and [illegible] ally fell back when our artillery opened upon the advancing rebels with withering discharges of grape and canister from the seige guns and light batteries brought to bear and the rebels were mowed down like grass They still advanced and were given another slaughtering discharge when they halted A rebel caisson exploded, spreading death in all directions

The gunboats on the Appomattox joined in the shelling of the woods where the rebel reserve was stationed, finally the rebels finding our forces so well prepared withdrew, leaving their dead on the field Our defences were constructed by some of our best engineers and are considered almost impregnable

New York May 24 —It is reported that the gun boats of the Potomac flotilla have removed all the obstructions in the Rappahannock

Nothing additional from Grant's army

The Washington Republican last evening says our army at Sunday noon was five miles beyond Spottsylvania Court House, and everything progressing satisfactorily

The Richmond Enquirer admits heavy losses in the battles with Butler last week, and foots it up at 15,000

But little is received in regard to Grant's last movements

Secretary Stanton has recommended the papers to publish nothing on the subject of Grant's movements at the present

Oregon Matters —The correspondent of the Sacramento Union, writing under date of April 21st, says

This morning the Senate passed a bill making Portland, (Oregon) a port of entry, immediately after the bill to authorize the erection of an assay office at Dalles City (Oregon) was called up when Nesmith offered an amendment which provides that a branch Mint and assay office shall be erected at that point. Nesmith made a sharp speech in reply to one from Howe, who had defended Superintendent Pollock who is 'forninst' the Oregon Branch Mint The amendment was adopted by a vote of two to one, Fessenden voted in the affirmative and gave notice of a motion to reconsider, so the bill went over

Body Found —On Wednesday last the body of a man was found in the Snake river, in a nude state A Coroner's inquest was held and the jury found 'that the man to them was unknown aged about 30 or 35 years, about five feet six inches in height, dark complexion and the causes of death was unknown' The right side of his skull was broken in —three holes being found—indicative of being done with a sharp instrument or a pistol The body is supposed to have been in the water some three months, and was very much decomposed The only mark that could be found whereby he might be recognized was that of a mole or wart under his right shoulder blade, of a large size —Golden Age, May 21

Another Fatal Shooting Affray —Mr Partin who keeps the ferry on Snake river formerly known as Moore's ferry and a ferryman on the Payette had a difficulty on Sunday last with regard to ferry matters in which several shots were exchanged Partin killed and the other man severely if not mortally wounded The shooting occurred at the ferry on the Payette and grew out of a misunderstanding with regard to passing travelers over that ferry who hold tickets from the other an agreement having been entered into between the parties by which Partin's tickets were to be recognized and his [illegible] passed free of charge over the Payette —Boise News

Lecture at Vancouver —Rev George H Atkinson of this city delivered his lecture on the subject of "The Citizen Soldier" before the Ladies' Sanitary Aid Society of Vancouver, on Tuesday evening, to a very attentive audience At the close of the lecture a collection was taken up in aid of the Sanitary Commission, which netted $121 in legal tender notes This sum together with the amount on hand, making $464 in legal tender notes was yesterday placed at the disposal of Dr Bellows, at San Francisco through favor of Ladd & Tilton, free The Superintendent of the telegraph line Mr Haines transmitted the dispatch, also free This is a quick method, and a generous way, of responding to the wants of the Home Society, made necessarily greater by the late action of the noble heroes who are fighting the battles of the nation Our Vancouver friends are never "weary in well doing"

Very bad Boys —We have good schools in and about Portland, but the streets exhibit a school for vice which almost counteracts all the good of these establishments Gangs of half grown boys crowd every place, noisy, turbulent, graceless and ready for all manner of cruel and cowardly meannesses If reproved by an orderly citizen they resent it, and ten to one commence throwing stones and mud at him The Indians seem to be their peculiar butts for abuse in every form Why is it that the law officers do not arrest [illegible] as well as men, for gross violations of law?

A Musical Mulatero —A pack train from down the coast, passed through our city the other day, and the whole concern appeared to be Greaser, from the aparejos and aparejos to the drivers One chap brought up the rear, holding a guitar on his lap as carefully as an infant—music being the ruling passion with him Of course he will be welcomed, wherever he stops at night Goldsmith with his flute, might be called his most illustrious predecessor, without going back into heathendom, for Orpheuses and Lapphos

Unhandy Business —The master of one of the numerous ocean crafts, now lying in this port, concluded to try the Macadamized road, behind a spanking pair of bays a few days since He made a "straight wake" when under a "taut bowline" but the "steerage apparatus" not being such as he was used to on board the vessel, he could not well get the hang of the "tiller ropes" when about to "veer and haul"

United States Taxes —The Income tax for the last year, is now due and payable. Collector Graves gives notice that ten per cent. additional will be charged after Tuesday next on all licenses re[illegible] The regulations of the [illegible] be fully understood by this [illegible] Sim is in need of all the [illegible] we hope the case will suggest [illegible]

Base Illuminati[illegible] [illegible] become so lost to a sense [illegible] permit the illumination, from [illegible] month, every night in the year [illegible] houses worse than vile den of [illegible] on both sides of a prominent street, within a stone's throw of one of our most popular [illegible] We ask the question, and [illegible] the matter will receive consideration from [illegible] source

Getting Hungry —The panthers are evidently getting hungry Not long since we noticed the narrow escape of a little girl at St Helens, from a [illegible] and we now hear of another [illegible] near Forest Grove, in which a [illegible] of Thomas Gibbs was taken by a large [illegible] near his father, who was [illegible] The child was rescued and the panther killed

A Good Substitution —An accident happened to the machinery of the propeller G S Wright in coming from [illegible] which was likely to lay her up, but [illegible] Yankee on board who was a [illegible] and taking his knife soon made [illegible] formed a wooden escape pipe substituted high pressure for low pressure, and came on to Portland

Memalused—A dog belonging to an Indian was having a series of convulsions on Front street yesterday morning, near the old What Cheer House Somebody asked the Indian what was the matter with his dog? and the reply was to the effect that a Boston man had given him cultus muck a muck, probably a potion of beef steak and arsenic

The Wilson G Hunt —The steamer Wilson G. Hunt was again brought out yesterday, and placed on the berth for a cargo to the Cascades for to day During her temporary stay at the Company's bone yard she has been repainted, had her engines overhauled, and several new planks added to her deck, which fit her for her accustomed business very nicely

Who Comes Next?—A gentleman of our acquaintance, of undoubted veracity and liberality, offers to be one of ten, who will give a hundred dollars each, to make up a purse of $1,000 to be sent in aid of the Sanitary Commission immediately Who is the next to speak?

The Tableaux —The committee still have tickets for the grand tableaux on sale, but no fears need be entertained that they will dispose of so many that purchasers will be unable to get a glimpse of the scenes If all cannot be accommodated this evening the exhibition will probably be repeated

English Samples —A large variety of samples of English fabrics, and imported liquors, were offered for inspection at A B Richardson's auction and commission house yesterday The goods are from Victoria, and it seems our neighbors over there are determined to have at least a share of our patronage

Taken care of —The owner of the wood below the ferry landing on the East side of the river, had men employed yesterday in loading it on scows alongside of the pile It is not supposed to be very well seasoned at the lower tiers

Loading with Grain.—Capt Corno is now loading his vessel, the bark Industry, with wheat, oats barley, and mill feed He will take all of that kind of produce that is offered to him, before the time advertised for the vessel to sail

Cherries —Small lots of cherries have been received by dealers, and are held at rather steep prices The reports about a short crop are not altogether unfounded, but larger lots will undoubtedly follow the present supply

LECTURE AT VANCOUVER.—Rev George H Atkinson of this city delivered his lecture on the subject of "The Citizen Soldier" before the Ladies' Sanitary Aid Society of Vancouver, on Tuesday evening, to a very attentive audience. At the close of the lecture a collection was taken up in aid of the Sanitary Commission, which netted $121 in legal tender notes. This sum, together with the amount on hand, making $464 in legal tender notes, was yesterday placed at the disposal of Dr Bellows, at San Francisco through favor of Ladd & Tilton, free. The Superintendent of the telegraph line, Mr Haines, transmitted the dispatch, also free. This is a quick method, and a generous way, of responding to the wants of the Home Society, made necessary greater by the late action of the noble heroes who are fighting the battles of the nation. Our Vancouver friends are never "weary in well doing."

VERY BAD BOYS.—We have good schools in and about Portland, but the streets exhibit a school for vice, which almost counteracts all the good of these establishments. Gangs of half grown boys crowd every place, noisy, turbulent, graceless, and ready for all manner of cruel and cowardly meanness. If reproved by an orderly citizen they resent it, and ten to one commence throwing stones and mud at him. The Indians seem to be their peculiar butts for abuse, in every form. Why is it that the law officers do not arrest [illegible] well as men, for gross violations of law?

A MUSICAL MULATERO.—A pack train from down the coast, passed through our city the other day, and the whole concern appeared to be Greaser, from the tapojos and aparejos to the drivers. One chap brought up the rear, holding a guitar on his lap as carefully as an infant—music being the ruling passion with him. Of course he will be welcomed where ever he stops at night. Goldsmith with his flute, might be called his most illustrious predecessor, without going back into heathen dom, for Orpheuses and Lapphos.

UNHANDY BUSINESS.—The master of one of the numerous ocean crafts, now lying in this port, concluded to try the Macadamized road, behind a spanking pair of bays, a few days since. He made a "straight wake" when under a "taut bowlin'," but the "steerage apparatus" not being such as he was used to on board the vessel, he could not well get the hang of the "tuller ropes" when about to "veer and haul."

UNITED STATES TAXES.—The Income tax for the last year, is now due, and payable. Collector Graves gives notice that ten per cent additional will be charged after Tuesday next on all licenses remaining unpaid. The regulations of the revenue law should be fully understood by this time, and as Uncle Sam is in need of all the funds possible, we hope the above will suggest prompt payment.

BASE ILLUMINATION.—Has Portland become so lost to a sense of shame as to permit the illumination, from month to month, every night in the year, of a row of houses worse than vile dens of infamy, on both sides of a [illegible] street, within a stone's throw of one of our most popular hotels? We ask the [illegible], and hope the matter will receive consideration from some source.

GETTING HUNGRY.—The panthers are evidently getting hungry. Not long since we [illegible] the narrow escape of a little girl at St Helens, from a large cougar, and we now hear of another case similar, near Forest Grove, in which a little son of Thomas G [illegible] was taken by a large panther, while near his father, who was at work in the garden. The child was rescued, and the panther killed.

A GOOD SUBSTITUTION.—An accident happened to the machinery of the propeller G S Wright, in coming from Astoria, which was likely to lay her up, but they had a Yankee on board who was a good whittler, and taking his knife soon made a "cut off," formed a wooden escape pipe, substituted high pressure for low pressure, and came on to Portland.

MISALLOTED.—A dog belonging to an Indian was having a series of convulsions on Front street yesterday morning, near the old What Cheer House. Somebody asked the Indian what was the matter with his dog? and the reply was to the effect that a Boston man had given him cultus muck a muck, probably a piece of beef steak and arsenic.

THE WILSON G HUNT.—The steamer Wilson G. Hunt was again brought out yesterday, and placed on the berth for a cargo to the [illegible] for to day. During her temporary stay at the Company's bone yard she has been repainted, had her engines overhauled, and several new planks added to her deck, which [illegible] for her accustomed business very nicely.

WHO COMES NEXT?—A gentleman of our acquaintance, of undoubted veracity and liberality, offers to be one of ten, who will give a hundred dollars each, to make up a purse of $1,000 to be sent in aid of the Sanitary Commission, immediately. Who is the next [illegible]?

THE TABLEAUX.—The committee still have tickets for the grand tableaux on sale, but no fears need be entertained that they will [illegible] so many that purchasers will be unable to get a glimpse of the scenes. If all cannot be accommodated this evening the exhibition will probably be repeated.

ENGLISH SAMPLES.—A large variety of samples of English fabrics, and imported liquors, were offered for inspection at A B Richardson's auction and commission house yesterday. The goods are from Victoria, and it seems our neighbors over there are determined to have at least a share of our patronage.

TAKEN CARE OF.—The owner of the wood below the ferry landing on the East side of the river, had men employed yesterday in loading it on scows alongside of the pile. It is not supposed to be very well seasoned at the lower tiers.

LOADING WITH GRAIN.—Capt Corno is now loading his vessel, the bark Industry, with wheat, oats, barley, and mill feed. He will take all of that kind of produce that is offered to him, before the time advertised for the vessel to sail.

CHERRIES.—Small lots of cherries have been received by dealers, and are held at rather steep prices. The reports about a short crop are not altogether unfounded, but larger lots will undoubtedly follow the present supply.

ARRIVAL OF THE ALMATIA.—The bark Almatia, A B Richardson Master arrived in tow of the steamer John H Couch from Astoria, at 6 o'clock last evening. The Almatia left San Francisco on the 14th and brings a general freight consigned as follows: [illegible] Ideas [illegible] Miller & Co [illegible] H W Corbett 18 Dimmond [illegible] [illegible] Co [illegible] Ladd & Tilton [illegible] [illegible] D & W D [illegible] 20 [illegible] Dimond M [illegible] R N Hew [illegible] Gilman 125 Wort Bros 20 [illegible] [illegible] John [illegible] 45 S B & C [illegible] J [illegible] Allen & Lewis 1 9 [illegible] Burnside & [illegible] G & Bro [illegible] Brown 381 Brown Mayers [illegible] Baker Bros 339 [illegible] 20 Smith & Davis 8 [illegible] I W R Dimond N [illegible] L & B [illegible] 9 J McHenry 4 Hodge & Calef [illegible] J H [illegible] B & R [illegible] G T Myers & Co [illegible] Northrup & Co 70 B D Umatilla 90 [illegible] Wells Fargo & Co [illegible] total 3 681

An Appeal for a Great Sanitary Fair

[By Howart Glyndon Read before the General Assembly of the loyal men and women of St Louis convened at the Mercantile Library February 1 1864 by Professor Amasa McCoy of Washington D C]

Where the Mississippi's lazily troubled waters
Roll their tawny waves along
And the South land's ever [illegible] wilful daughters
Change to sighing all their song,—
Far away from any help or kindly soothing
They are dying day by day—
Without love or any tender hand for smoothing
The last frown of death away

Who are dying! Who are falling in their traces
Stabbed by pestilence and war—
With a firm resolve upon their pallid faces
Which death can never blunt!
Who are tracking from the West land to the South land
A free passage in their blood?
Who have never turned their failing footsteps homeward
Nor faltered where they stood!

Loyal men who make the sinews of the nation
Who keep alive the throbbings of its heart
Royal heroes without thought of rank or station,
By the God of battles called and set apart!
The champions of this crucified Republic,
The flower and the glory of the land!
And shall no help nor any word of greeting,
Go to cheer them where they stand?

In hospitals and in camps so thickly crowded
They are suffering life away—
With no blessed touch of home to balm or soften
The pain which maketh grey!
O ye daughters! O ye sisters O ye mothers!
Are ye haunted by those eyes?
The weary dying looks of sons and brothers
Who shall never more arise?

Let us help them! We, who sit in careless comfort,
In our happy cheerful homes
Shall we leave our brave defenders pining dying
For the help that never comes?
Oh! remember, that the quiet of each hearth stone
Is purchased with their blood
And for us they wear the cross and thorns of Christhood,
In their noble martyr mood!

Let us help, then! Oh ye hearts of loyal women!
For your hands is not the sword!
To heal, and not to wound, your blessed mission,
Hand-maidens of the Lord!
Be the Martyrs of this suffering Republic,
Take your places at its feet!
Ye are gentle and your hands have skill in healing,
And your words are pure and sweet!

Ye loyal men who love the nation's welfare,
Give freely without thought
Strengthen well the hands by which this fearful ransom
For Freedom's cause is wrought!
Oh, loyal hearts, behold your country's altar
Awaits your sacrifice!
From your offering the pledge of its redemption,
Shall its new born glory rise!

Mabel's Cap,

OR,

ADVENTURES AT THE OLD FOLKS' CONCERT

"Come, Charley, put up that miserable work of fiction, and let's go to the Old Folks' Concert this evening, you know it's their last night, and after the supper, we intend to have a little dance at the Armory Hall"

These words I addressed to my old friend Charles Hammond, a young man of prepossessing appearance, and the beau ideal of many a young lady who sat reading a late novel

"Old Folks' Concert be banged!" he replied, "of what benefit is it to me to go and listen to a lot of obsolete tunes that my grandmother used to sing, and sung too, by a lot of persons dressed in the style of Shakspeare's time I assure you I shall be much more interested in my book than I would be to attend the concert"

"Very well, if you don't mean to accompany me I shall go alone and probably captivate Miss Helen Gray"

"Oh!" cried Charley, "if Mabel is to be present, I think I can afford to go with you I received an introduction to her the other evening, and would like to be on friendship's footing with her, for she really is a charming creature!"

"Ah, ha! my boy, I thought I would fetch you Well, come along, old fel, for we are late already"

We started at a brisk gait up D street, and soon arrived at the place of holding the concert, and entering, we were seated by the usher near the centre of the room and commanding a full view of the platform on which were seated the singers

Old Father Kemp, with his long white beard, was seated on a raised platform, a music stool before him, beating time, to the infinite delight of the spectators

Old Grimes had just finished his time worn song when I was nudged by Charley, and leaning my head close to him, he whispered

"Look at that horrible cap, you can see it just over Miss [illegible] tall shaker The lady who wears it is sitting in the back row, and consequently it is impossible to see her face, but I'll wager you the cigars she's some sour, vinegar-faced old maid of thirty"

"Taken," said I, "and I think, Charley, that after the concert, I'll have a smoke at your expense"

The concert was a perfect success Every one seemed pleased, and on its closing, every one of course must go down and take supper in the Yankee kitchen, among whom were Charles and myself

We sauntered around, meeting here and there old friends, disguised in the habiliments of our ancestors, and presenting a very comical appearance Many a laugh we had at the odd and grotesque pieces of "harness," as Charley persisted in calling their antique wearing apparel

We had circulated around the room once or twice, and were now walking slowly, gazing over the sea of heads in search of Mabel Gray, for we had seen nothing of her since we entered Then Charley stooped down and picked up something

"What have you there?" I asked

"What do you suppose?" he answered, "nothing more nor less than that vinegar-faced old maid's cap. I think I see her now in my imagination She has yellow sandy hair, a long hook nose, small gray eyes, a pointed chin, perfectly toothless, and wrinkles all over her face"

"I'll thank you, Mr. Hammond for my cap," we heard a soft voice say, and Charley, on turning around, beheld to his astonishment, that the sour vinegar faced old maid, he had pictured the possessor of the cap to be, was none other than the handsome and fascinating Mabel Gray Charley was struck speechless. She had heard every word, and what conclusion might she not draw from his thoughtless words

He stammered out some apology, as he handed her the cap, but not appearing to take any notice of his embarrassment, she thanked him very kindly for the flattering compliments he had paid her, and walked majestically away leaning on the arm of one of her numerous admirers.

"A pretty scrape you got yourself into," I cried, ready to burst with laughter "How do you ever expect to be on friendly terms with Mabel again?"

"I am very sorry, Will," he replied, "I hadn't the least idea that the cap belonged to her"

"No, I don't suppose you did, I pity you old fellow. To-morrow after breakfast we will have that smoke together I really am very sorry you lost Ha! ha! ha!"

"But never mind Charley don't let it worry you We will probably meet her at the dance, and then you can have an opportunity for explaining matters to her She is an amiable creature and I know will readily forgive you"

This seemed to reassure him somewhat but still for the rest of the evening, he was very guarded in his criticisms of people, their manners and dress, and more particular caps, and although there were two or three fitting around him, he never said caps once afterwards

After we had seen enough of the Yankee Kitchen, we proceeded to the ball, where already was assembled gay youths and fair maidens, all joining in the mystic mazes of the dance

Charley took but little interest in the dancing for Mabel was not there I never saw any little thing trouble him so, and at an early hour he retired

Poor Charley thought I, he must be very much smitten with Mabel to allow a little incident like that to trouble him and for the rest of the evening I banished Charley and his "sour, vinegar faced old maid of thirty" from my mind

Charley was ill at ease when he left the ball room and all the next day was pondering on the most expedite mode of retrieving his lost ground

He finally resolved to apologize in person So early that evening he called upon the fair Mabel and with a woeful countenance expressive of sincere regret, made an apology, which was readily accepted

"You need not have troubled yourself Mr Hammond about the little circumstance" she replied to his apology. "I understood the matter perfectly well, and was well aware you did not know who the owner was why I spoke to you as I did I can't tell, probably simply for the fun of the thing, and to see the embarrassing position it would place you in, and as a matter of justice I think an apology is due you" Charley assured her that he was very happy in knowing that she had not taken offence at his thoughtless remarks

Charley must have spent an agreeable evening with Mabel, as I saw nothing of him till nearly 11 o'clock, P M, when he came into my room in the best of humor, and told me he had made it all right with Mabel

Charley suddenly took a great interest in a young lady up town, and I often caught him going into Mabel's house, he still, however, refused to acknowledge that he was smitten by the charms of Mabel, and said "he only visited her as she was pleasant company"

Matters continued on in this manner for some time, when finally one evening Charley called me one side, and told me the startling intelligence that he was to be married the next morning to Mabel Gray, and wished me to be present at the wedding

"Well," said he, "I lost the cigars on the old maid of thirty, but he won something far dearer than cigars, something that all the gold in California could not buy, and I assure you I am by no means sorry that you won the cigars" The next morning I attended the wedding, and while congratulating the bride she whispered in my ear—"caught a husband with my grandmother's cap"—Marysville Appeal

A New Kink in the Negro Question—The correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from Washington, says

The Secretary of War is responsible for a new legal idea Such things are not so common as to be passed over without notice, and so far as I know, this is absolutely new

The slaves he argues have the strict technical, legal right to the land of the rebels

He undertakes to establish it thus

"They have always had one right, which constituted a legal lien upon the property, personal or real of their masters—the right to subsistence. The masters may be gone but the property remains—still subject to lien held by the slaves Under the principles of the Confiscation law the right of the master to his estate is gone. No other parties have any claim to it, no others have any interest in it save the slaves who still have their lien In legal language, this is the remainder in interest.

It is a well established legal principle that, where there is no other title, any sort of lien gives possession and title Therefore the slaves holding the only lien, have the legal right to the property

I do not know that the Secretary who has been amusing himself by setting forth his theory in conversation occasionally, regards it as a very good law according to the books, but if it isn't it ought to be!"

A Black Republican Trick—In the warrant for a town meeting in a neighboring town a few weeks since, one of the articles was to see if the town would authorize the erection of a flag staff One old Copperhead patriarch on the day of the meeting was heard to ask his friends what kind of a flag it was proposed to display upon the staff "The Stars and Stripes, of course," replied the friend "I thought so," said the old shell back, "I knew it was some d—n Black Republican project!"—Portland (Me) Advertiser

[By Hobart Glyndon Read before the General Assembly o the loyal men and women of St Louis convened at the Mercantile Library February 1 1864, by Professor Amasa McCoy of Washington, D C]

Where the Mississippi a brakir troubled waters
R ll their tawny w r s a u g
And the South lands ver m l t w tful daughters
Change to sighing all ll g—
Far away from any help r a studly soothing
They are dying day, l j ay—
Without love or any tende l for emco l ing
The last frown of de th s ay

Who are dying! Who are f lling in their traces
Stabbed by pestilence I w t—
With a firm resolve upon th ir pall d faces
Which death can r ver t unt!
Who are tracking from the West land to the South land
A free passage in t t l d?
Who have never turned th r fail ng footsteps homeward
Nor faltered where th y stood?

Loyal men who make the sinews of the nation
Who keep alive the th robbings of its heart
Royal heroes with ut thought of rank or station
By the God of battles called and set apart!
The champions of this crucified Republic
The flower and he gl ry of the land!
And shall no help n r any word of greeting,
Go to cheer them al ore they stand?

In hospitals and in camps so thickly crowded
Ti ey are suffering life away—
With no blessed touch of home to balm or soften
The pain wl ich u aketh grey!
O, ye daughters! O ye sisters O, ye mothers!
Are ye haunted by these eyes!
The weary dying looks f sons and brothers,
Who shall never more arise!

Let us help them! We who sit in careless comfort,
In our happy cheerful homes!
Shall we leave our brave defenders piting, dying
For the help that never comes?
Oh! remember that the quiet of each hearth stone
Is purchased with their blood
And for us they wear the cross and thorns of Christhood
In their noble martyr mood!

Let us help, then! Oh ye hearts of loyal women!
For your hands is not the sw rd!
To heal, and not to wound your blessed mission
Hand-maidens of the Lord
Be the Martyrs of this suffering Republic,
Take y ur places at i s feet!
Ye are gentle and your hands have skill in healing,
And your words are pure and sweet!

Ye loyal men who love the nation s welfare,
Give freely without thought!
Strengthen well the hands by which this fearful ransom
For Freedom s cause is wrought!
Oh loyal hearts behold your country s altar
Awaits y ur sacrifice!
From your offering the pledge of its redemption,
Shall its new born glory rise

Mabel's Cap,

OR,

ADVENTURES AT THE OLD FOLKS' CONCERT.

"Come, Charley, put up that miserable work of fiction, and let s go to the Old Folks' Concert this evening, you know it's their last night, and after the supper, we intend to have a little dance at the Armory Hall"

These words I addressed to my old friend Charles Hammond, a young man of prepossessing appearance, and the beau ideal of many a young lady who sat reading a late novel

"Old Folks' Concert be hanged!" he replied, "of what benefit is it to me to go and listen to a lot of obsolete tunes that my grandmother used to sing, and sung too by a lot of persons dressed in the style of Shakspeare s time I assure you I shall be much more interested in my book than I would be to attend the concert"

Very well, if you don't mean to accompany me I shall go alone and probably captivate Miss Helen Gray"

'Oh!" cried Charley, "if Mabel is to be present I think I can afford to go with you I received an introduction to her the other evening, and would like to be on friendship's footing with her, for she really is a charming creature!"

'Ah, ha! my boy, I thought I would fetch you Well, come along, old fel, for we are late already"

We started at a brisk gait up D street, and soon arrived at the place of h lding the concert, and entering we were seated by the usher near the centre of the room and commanding a full view of the platform on which were seated the singers

Old Father Kemp, with his long white beard, was seated on a raised platform a music stool before him beating time, to the infinite delight of the spectators

Old Grimes had just finished his time worn song when I was nudged by Charley, and leaning my head close to him, he whispered

Look at that horrible cap, you can see it just over Miss tall shaker The lady who wears it is sitting in the back row, and consequently it is impossible to see her face; but I'll wager you the cigars she's some sour, vinegar-faced old maid of thirty"

'Taken," said I "and I think, Charley, that after the concert, I ll have a smoke at your expense"

The concert was a perfect success Every one seemed pleased, and on its closing, every one of course must go down and take supper in the Yankee kitchen, among whom were Charles and myself

We sauntered around meeting here and there old friends, disguised in the habiliments of our ancestors, and presenting a very comical appearance Many a laugh we had at the odd and grotesque pieces of 'harness," as Charley persisted in calling their antique wearing apparel

We had circulated around the room once or twice, and were now walking slowly, gazing over the sea of heads in search of Mabel Gray, for we had seen nothing of her since we entered. Then Charley stooped down and picked up something

"What have you there?" I asked

"What do you suppose?" he answered, "nothing more nor less than that vinegar-faced old maid's cap I think I see her now in my imagination She has yellow sandy hair, a long hook nose, small gray eyes, a pointed chin, perfectly toothless, and wrinkles all over her face"

"I'll thank you, Mr Hammond for my cap," we heard a soft voice say and Charley, on turning around, beheld to his astonishment, that the sour vinegar faced old maid, he had pictured the possessor of the cap to be, was none other than the handsome and fascinating Mabel Gray Charley was struck speechless! She had heard every word and what conclusion might she not draw from his thoughtless words

He stammered out some apology, as he handed her the cap, but not appearing to take any notice of his embarrassment, she thanked him very kindly for the flattering compliments he had paid her, and walked majestically away, leaning on the arm of one of her numerous admirers

"A pretty scrape you got yourself into" I cried, ready to burst with laughter ' How do you ever expect to be on friendly terms with Mabel again?"

"I am very sorry, Will," he replied, "I hadn't the least idea that the cap belonged to her"

"No, I don't suppose you did I pity you old fellow. To-morrow after breakfast we will have that smoke together. I really am very sorry you lost Ha! ha! ha!'

"But never mind Charley don t let it worry you We will probably meet her at the dance, and then you can have an opportunity for explaining matters to her She is an amiable creature and I know will readily forgive you"

This seemed to reassure him somewhat but still for the rest of the evening he was very guarded in his criticisms of people, their manners and dress, and more particular caps, and although there were two or three flitting around him, he never said caps once afterwards.

After we had seen enough of the Yankee Kitchen, we proceeded to the ball, where already was assembled gay youths and fair maidens, all joining in the mystic mazes of the dance

Charley took but little interest in the dancing for Mabel was not there I never saw any little thing trouble him so, and at an early h ur he retired

Poor Charley thought I he must be very much smitten with Mabel to allow a little incident like that to trouble him, and for the rest of the evening I I mished Charley and his "sour, vinegar faced old maid of thirty" from my mind

Charley was ill at ease when he left the ball room and all the next day was pondering on the most expedite mode of retrieving his lost ground

He finally resolved to apologize in person So early that evening he called upon the fair Mabel, and with a woeful countenance expressive of sincere regret, made an apology, which was readily accepted

You need not have troubled yourself, Mr Hammond, about the little circumstance," she replied to his apology. 'I understood the matter perfectly well, and was well aware you did not know who the owner was why I spoke to you as I did I can t tell, probably simply for the fun of the thing, and to see the embarrassing position it would place you in, and as a matter of justice I think an apology is due you" Charley assured her that he was very happy in knowing that she had not taken offence at his thoughtless remarks

Charley must have spent an agreeable evening with Mabel, as I saw nothing of him till nearly 11 o'clock, P M, when he came into my room in the best of humor, and told me he had made it all right with Mabel

Charley suddenly took a great interest in a young lady up town, and I often caught him going into Mabel's house he still, however, refused to acknowledge that he was smitten by the charms of Mabel, and said "she only visited her as she was pleasant company"

Matters continued on in this manner for some time, when finally one evening Charley called me one side, and told me the startling intelligence that he was to be married the next morning to Mabel Gray, and wished me to be present at the wedding

"Well," said he, "I lost the cigars on the old maid of thirty, but he won something far dearer than cigars, something that all the gold in California could not buy and I assure you I am by no means sorry that you won the cigars" The next morning I attended the wedding, and while congratulating the bride she whispered in my ear—"caught a husband with my grandmother s cap" —Marysville Appeal

A New Kink in the Negro Question —The correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from Washington, says

The Secretary of War is responsible for a new legal idea Such things are not so common as to be passed over without notice, and so far as I know, this is absolutely new

The slaves he argues have the strict technical, legal right to the land of the rebels

He undertakes to establish it thus,

' They have always had one right which constituted a legal lien upon the property personal or real of their masters—the right to subsistence The masters may be gone but the property remains—still subject to lien held by the slaves Under the principles of the Confiscation law, the right of the master to his estate is gone No other parties have any claim to it no others have any interest in it save the slaves who still have their lien In legal language th s is the remainder in interest

It is a well established legal principle that, where there is no other title, any sort of lien gives possession and title Therefore the slaves holding the only lien, have the legal right to the property

' I do not know that the Secretary, who has been amusing himself by setting forth his theory in conversation occasionally, regards it as a very good law according to the books; but if it isn t it ought to be!'

A Black Republican Trick —In the warrant for a town meeting in a neighboring town a few weeks since, one of the articles was to see if the town would authorize the erection of a flag staff One old Copperhead patriarch on the day of the meeting was heard to ask his friends what kind of a flag it was proposed to display upon the staff. The Stars and Stripes, of course," replied the friend "I thought so," said the old shell back; "I knew it was some d—n Black Republican project!"—Portland (Me) Advertiser

It is well known that the medicinal effect of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron without further oxidation has been deemed impossible

In the Peruvian Syrup, this desirable point is attained by COMBINATION IN A WAY BEFORE UNKNOWN; and this solution may replace all the proto carbonates, citrates and tartrates of the Materia Medica A A HAYES M D,

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DIScovery of modern chemistry and it is impossible to over-estimate its influence as a remedial agent Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system It is to act upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless until Dr Henry Anders a physician and chemist of New York after years of patient labor and experiment discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER.

without a solvent This, considered impossible by the scientific world is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr J R Chilton of this city, and Prof Booth U S Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals and its use recommended to practitioners (see 'American Medical Monthly,' July 6, 1863 page 76)

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption Cancer Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases Rheumatism Neuralgia Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis etc

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine The patient recovers flesh strength and color; hitherto pale relaxed and feeble he becomes full, strong and florid
